WAFFLED COINS SEAM TO BE POPULAR. NOT COMMANDING PRICES THEY ONCE DID. HOWEVER, A SUBSTANTIAL GROUP OF CENT THROUGH DOLLAR SHOWED UP ON THE MARKET. EVEN FOREIGN COINS ARE BEGINNING TO APPEAR.

Buffalo Nickel “Speared Bison” & Wisconsin Quarter “Extra Leafs”

by Al Levy (alscoins.com)

PLEASE NOTE: THE ERROR TYPES LISTED BELOW WERE EBAY LOTS THAT CLOSED WITH A HIGH BIDDER. IF THE RESERVE PRICE WAS NOT MET, OR PICTURE WAS NOT ATTACHED, THEN I IGNORED THE AUCTION. FUZZY PICTURES, OR QUESTIONABLE DESCRIPTIONS ARE NOT INCLUDED.

AN IMPORTANT OBSERVATION IS THAT THE BUFFALO 5c “SPEARED BISON” & THE “WISCONSIN” 25c EXTRA LEAFS ARE SHOWING UP AT SHOWS. MOST DEALERS I SPOKE TO AT SHOWS ARE HAVING TROUBLE FINDING COLLECTORS FOR THESE ITEMS. THEY WIND UP SELLING THEM ON THE INTERNET. THEY ARE LOOKING TO PURCHASE THESE AS CHEAP AS POSSIBLE.

HIGH GRADE SPEARED BISONS HAVE HAD A SUBSTANTIAL DROP IN BUYERS. WHILE THE WISCONSIN LOW/HIGH LEAFS DROPPED IN PRICE THE FIRST MONTH OF THE QUARTER BUT ARE ON THE RISE. NEW REPORTS IN THE NUMISMATIC PRESS HAVE REGENERATED NEW INTEREST.

Unique 1866 $2.5 Struck on 3 Cent Nickel Planchet Certified by NGC

by Mike Byers

This numismatic discovery was just certified in 2007 by NGC. It is one of two known U.S. Liberty gold coins struck on wrong planchets and certified by either NGC or PCGS as a mint error. The other known piece is a unique 1851 $20 Liberty struck on a cent planchet and certified by NGC.

Coincidentally, in 1975 I bought the 1851 $20 Liberty on a Large Cent planchet from Fred Weinberg. It was one of the highlights from the famous Dr. J. Hewitt Judd Collection. Judd listed it with illustration in Appendix B of his pattern book as a mint error. Until the discovery of this 1866 $2½ struck on a 3 Cent Nickel planchet, it was the only known U.S. gold coin struck on a wrong planchet. The $20 struck on the Large Cent planchet now resides in an East Coast collection of mint errors and is valued by many mint error specialists at over $150,000 should it ever become available.

This unique 1866 $2½ is an incredible discovery for many reasons. An 1866 $2½ has an extremely low mintage with only 3,080 struck and is one of the rarest dated $2½ Liberties known. It is a five-figure coin in just mint state 60 and a true gem, if it existed in this grade, would be worth well into six-figures.

This mint error is in gem condition. It was fully struck and has pristine fields and a flawless portrait. I would describe this coin as struck. It weighs 2.04 grams since it was accidentally struck on a 3 Cent Nickel blank planchet. It is incredible that this coin was preserved in this condition.

There are other U.S. gold coins struck as patterns and die trials on different alloys and/or with different designs. These are listed in Judd in the regular section along with the patterns. It is possible that one of these listed may actually be a mint error struck by mistake on a wrong planchet. But until one is authenticated and certified by PCGS or NGC as a mint error, only the $20 on a Large Cent blank and this 1866 $2½ on a 3 Cent Nickel planchet have been verified. I've handled patterns, die trials, splashers and other numismatic rarities since 1975 and I've never come across a U.S. gold coin which I genuinely believe was struck by mistake (mint error) on a wrong planchet other than the two I mention above.

In his 1975 reference book United States Gold Coins - An Analysis of Auction Records Volume II - Quarter Eagles 1796-1929, David Akers states that he has not seen a strictly uncirculated 1866 $2½ and that it is very underrated in all grades.

I'm proud to announce that I recently purchased (via private treaty) the finest known mint state 1866 $2 1/2 struck in gold. It is certified MS 65 by PCGS. It was previously in an NGC holder with the same grade. Current population reports published by PCGS and NGC, as well as the auction archives on the Heritage Auction Galleries website, clearly show that this piece is the finest known and the only one certified mint state 65 by both PCGS and NGC.

Without exaggeration, this major discovery is one of the most exciting and breathtaking mint errors that I have ever handled since 1975. To have a unique combination of an extremely rare dated gold coin, with a six figure value in superb condition, that is also a mint error (struck on a 3 Cent Nickel planchet) is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. This numismatic rarity is unique, spectacular and would be the showpiece of any collection of U.S. gold coins or major mint errors.

Presidential $1 Error Coins: George Washington

by David J. Camire (NGC & NCS)

This is the first in our new article series featuring Presidential $1 Error Coins that have been submitted to NGC for certification. Most collectors of U.S. coins are already well familiar with the Presidential $1 Coin program. Each year, four U.S. Presidents are honored as their likeness appears on the obverse of a circulating dollar coin. The coins are issued approximately every three months in the order that the Presidents served, and the coin series is expected to extend until 2016.

The size, weight, and metallic composition of these new dollar coins are identical to the Sacagawea dollars (which are being minted concurrently). New to this series is the use of edge lettering. Some of the standard U.S. coinage legends as well as date and mintmark have been moved to the coin's edge.

This novel edge lettering is the source of many of the error coins which have surfaced. The edge lettering is not placed on the coins as they are struck, but in a separate post-striking process. Struck coins are moved in large tote bins from coin presses to edge lettering machines. Once moved, the coins are run through an edge lettering machine. By design, the coins enter the machine randomly so the placement of the lettering on the edge as well as the orientation to the obverse and reverse is entirely random. These variations therefore are not errors. As the struck coins are forced through the edge die, many possible scenarios exist for variations to the inscriptions including improperly spaced edge lettering, partial or missing edge lettering, and doubled edge lettering (if the coins should happen to run through this process twice). The enormous quantity of coins produced, hundreds of millions, by this new minting process means that all of these iterations are likely to exist. Thus far we have seen literally dozens of variations in the spacing and amount of inscriptions appearing on the coins' edges. To start, this is what the edge of the coin should look like:

• 2007 P E PLURIBUS UNUM • IN GOD WE TRUST

Now here is a sampling of the Washington $1 error coins that we have seen to date. The first group of errors show improperly spaced edge letters and partial edge letters. This occurs when the coins “slip” as they are run through the edge lettering machine. In some cases these errors are accompanied by Mint caused damage as the coins “slip” in the edge die.

Presidential $1 Error Coins: George Washington

Since the edge lettering is applied in a second step after the coins are struck, it is possible for a group of coins can skip this critical step and go straight to bagging. These coins will display a blank edge, which NGC describes as MISSING EDGE LETTERING. Many thousands of Washington $1 Coins did, in fact, miss this step and were released without the edge lettering.

Photo #3d: Partial Edge lettering. Several portions of the edge legends are missing, and mint caused damage is evident.

Please be aware that since all of these error coins currently have a numismatic value greater than the face amount on the coins, "alterations" made to deceive collectors are being made. For more information about edge alterations please refer to the article Altered Washington Dollars Surface posted on the NGC website.

Presidential $1 Error Coins: George Washington

In addition to edge lettering errors, other error types have also surfaced. The Washington dollars are composed of the same three-part clad layers as the Sacagawea dollars, and similarly missing clad layers exist. Planchets missing layers are thinner than normal planchets and, therefore, these errors show a noticeable weakness in the design especially along the edge of the coin. These errors can be dramatic because the pure copper center of the coin is exposed. This bright red is a sharp contrast to the “golden” appearance on the other side of the coin. Here are photos of missing clad layers:

Presidential $1 Error Coins: George Washington

Alterations to make a Presidential $1 Coin appear to be missing a clad layer will involve plating the coin to give it a copper appearance. A simple weight test will reveal the added metal, as the weight of an altered piece will exceed Mint tolerances.

A planchet may also pick up a coating if it is improperly annealed. This is a somewhat common error but one that is very difficult to authenticate. Improper annealing is often confused with toning coins. Unfortunately, improperly annealed planchets can take on a variety of colors from black to copper red. They are caused by over heating the planchets.

Since these coins are struck on presses that use lubricants such as oil and grease, it is common for dirt and grime to inadvertently adhere to the dies. This causes the dies to be clogged or filled. The struck coin will bear weakness on the devices. Again since this is a fairly common occurrence to some degree, NGC only recognizes those that show a major portion of missing detail. (Photo #7a, #7b.)

Presidential $1 Error Coins: George Washington

This next error is caused by the dies becoming improperly oriented in the press. This results in what we call rotated dies. We call them rotated dies and not rotated die as there is no way to tell if one or both dies moved in the press. (Photo #8.)

Since Presidential dollar blanks (type 1 and 2) and planchets are indistinguishable from those of Sacagawea's, we do not make a distinction. Blanks or planchets without edge lettering that are submitted will be labeled as follows: (2000-2007) $1 blank or planchet. (Photo #9.)

A new type of error that is possible with this series is an edge lettered blank or planchets. NGC has certified this new error. (Photo #10). NGC has also certified a similar lettered edge planchets with weakly lettered edge. (Photo #11a., 11b.)

Presidential $1 Error Coins: George Washington

Clipped planchets are another relatively common error often seen on coins, but are encountered far less frequently on the dollar coins. Thus far curved clips on the Washington dollars are rare. It is interesting to note that there is no lettering not only, as expected, at the area of the clip, but also directly across from the clip (in what is known as the Blakesley effect area). This is because the clipped area does not provide sufficient pressure to have the lettering applied by the edge die.

Coins showing multiple errors are usually very rare and this one is no exception. Not only is this Washington dollar missing the reverse clad layer, it also did not pass through the edge lettering machine.

Photo #13b: Missing reverse clad layer and missing edge lettering, detail of the coin's edge as seen in the EdgeView™ Holder.

Presidential $1 Error Coins: George Washington

Another intriguing error in this series shows doubled edge lettering. This occurs when a coin passes twice through the edge lettering machine. Because this error appears to occur more frequently on the John Adams

$1 than the Washington $1, detailed information can be found in our article on the second coin in the series, the Adams $1.

Presidential $1 Error Coins: John Adams

by David J. Camire (NGC & NCS)

Just like the Washington $1 coins, the Adams coins show an abundance of edge lettering errors. The first errors to surface for this issue were doubled edge lettered coins. This error occurs when a coin passes through the edge lettering machine twice. These come in two variations which are recognized by NGC:

Doubled edge lettering with the second set of letters overlapping the first (in various degrees from close to far). Because of space considerations, this is described on the NGC certification label as DBL.EDG.LET. – OVERLAPPED.

Doubled edge lettering with the second set of letters inverted over the first. On inverted examples, the two sets of edge lettering are in opposite orientation. One faces up when the obverse side is up, and the other is upside down. This is described on the NGC certification label as DBL.EDG.LET. – INVERTED.

Since these coins are fed through the edge lettering machine at random orientation, the edge lettering will appear randomly (as will the doubling) on the edge of the coins. This explains why some of the doubled edge lettering is overlapping and some inverted.

Here are some photos of doubled edge lettering. Again, the variety of positioning and orientation of the letters is essentially limitless.

Another error that we have seen occurs when a coin has missed the edge lettering process entirely, and therefore has a blank edge. NGC certifies this Mint Error as MISSING EDGE LETTERING.

With the Washington dollars, we saw some of the errors that exist for virtually every modern coin type. These include errors such as filled dies and rotated dies. Dirt, grease or other material can adhere to the die during minting. The filled portion of the die does not impart detail to the struck coin. Errors of this type are labeled as OBV STRUCK THRU.

Photo #4: John Adams $1, obverse struck through. The dies are filled with grease, dirt, or metal particles causing a significant loss of design.

Presidential $1 Error Coins: John Adams

Rotated dies can be either minor (within mint tolerance) or major. This error occurs when the die turns during striking or when the dies is inserted improperly into the coinage press. The Adams dollars has been found with varying degrees of rotation unlike the Washington where, to date, only one variation has been seen. For some examples on the Adams dollar, this rotation resulted in “medallic” alignment versus the correct, “coin” alignment. Medallic alignment occurs then the dies are rotated a full 180 degrees. The illustration below shows various types of alignment. NGC will designate rotated dies when the rotation is equal to or greater than 15 degrees.

Presidential $1 Error Coins: John Adams

This next coin is new to the series. On this coin, the edge lettering die seems to have been inadvertently laser-etched, making the entire edge of the coin appear frosted or matte-like. At first glance, without putting a loop to the coin, the edge appears simply less shiny than normal coins. Magnification of the edge of the coin reveals the lines associated with laser etching. While NGC is not recognizing this the matte edge Adams $1 at this time, we are currently investigating it for attribution.

Photo #6c: A close up of the date portion of the edge and parallel lines suggesting laser etching.

Are Error Coins Too Highly Priced?

by Rich Schemmer (richerrors.com)

These are statements that are frequently heard within the Error Coin hobby:

- * Prices are just too high...
- * I can't afford errors anymore...
- * What ever happened to the good old days?

Well, I'm sure we can make these same comments on many things over the years. Let's see...

In 1969, I purchased my home for $35,000. Today it's worth $600,000. Taxes for my home were just $1,200 per year. Today taxes are nearly $9,000.

1972 I bought a new Toyota Corolla, fully equipped for $2,500. Today they cost over $20,000.

I'm sure your starting to get my point. In 1980 (27 years ago) mint errors like dated Nickel on Cent planchets in BU were approximately $15. Today the same error is worth over $250. Now, is that a bad thing? Some may think so if they just started collecting. But others that started back in the 1980's are reaping large capitol gains (profits).

OK, here is another thought! What was my salary 30-40 years ago? $15,000 - $20,000 per year. 40 years ago it was under $10,000 and on that amount I was able to purchase a new home (In New York, Long Island), raise a family and still collect mint errors. What is your salary or salary potential today? $50,000 - $100,000 - $150,000 or more? Maybe you have a spouse that also works.

My point is that everything goes up in price eventually: Salaries, Homes, Taxes, College Educations, 401k, and popular collectables. So don't be taken back by the prices of today's error coins. Yes, they have gone up considerably over the years, but in reality that's a good thing. Would you want to collect something that has not risen in price over the last 30 years?

Error coins have made great strides over the years in popularity and price gains. We see the same continuing appreciation to continue for many, many years to come.

Are Error Coins Too Highly Priced?

What's fueling these gains?

Popularity: Mint errors have become popular among many collectors. They can be found in most major auctions. Many of these auctions set new records for better high grade examples of rare mint errors.

Availability: With the introduction of new presses in all the U.S. Mint facilities, very few new mint errors are produced. Even the common off-center Cent has become a rarity. Those that are made are usually caused by an outside vendor's mistake and the only error by the U.S. Mint is that it escaped the Mint's screening process to weed these out. What errors are made by outside vendors?

Clips: Most of the planchets are made by outside companies and sold to the U.S. Mint.

Improper Plated Cents: Either partially or totally; Cents that are missing the copper plating with the zinc core showing.

These errors are made by outside vendors (companies) and accidentally sold to the U.S. Mint.

Are Error Coins Too Highly Priced?

Striking Errors: Errors such as Off Centers, Caps, Indents, Multiple Strikes, Off Metals, Double Denominations, etc. are seldom made by the newer presses installed recently at the U.S. Mint.

There are fewer mint errors entering the error coin market since the installation of the newer presses at the U.S. Mint. This has caused a real shortage of newer material, thereby fueling a Bull market with ever increasing prices.

Basically, what is out there is ALL that is available. As errors get placed into collections they have a tendency not to surface for several years or even decades. That also creates an even larger shortage of available errors.

I hope you get a clear picture of what has happened over the years. Increased popularity, inflation and limited availability of mint errors all contribute to increased error coin prices that we've seen in the last decade.

So don't hesitate because of the current price level of errors, and look back at the so called "good old days." Because a few years from now you will be saying the same thing about today's current prices.

1998 Cent Struck On An Unplated Foreign Zinc Planchet

by Mike Diamond

Wrong planchet/off-metal errors are always in demand, and doubly so if they are accompanied by another error.

This 1998 cent was struck on an unplated, 2.05g zinc planchet apparently intended for another country (Figure 1). It undoubtedly got mixed in with the normal copper-plated zinc planchets supplied to the Mint by one of its outside contractors.

It does have a very light dusting of copper in the form of a “bulls eye” pattern in the center of each face, indicating that it should have ended up with a complete coating of copper. The edge of the coin is also slightly irregular.

It was originally labeled by ANACS as an “unplated elliptical clip”, but that diagnosis is clearly wrong. It doesn’t have an elliptical shape, there are no “points” located at opposite poles, and contact with the collar is limited to the southern pole.

U.S. cents struck on undersized copper-plated zinc planchets are well-known from the years 1996 – 2000. Their weights settle into a bimodal distribution, indicating the existence of two populations. The most common type is smaller in diameter and averages around 1.7 grams. The 1998 cent in Figure 2 is a representative of this population. It weighs 1.73 grams. The other type is larger and heavier, coming in at around 2.0 grams. The 1996 cent in Figure 3 is a representative example of this less common type. It weighs 2.07 grams. This specimen was struck on a copper-plated zinc blank (“Type I”). In other words, the blank either never went through the upset mill, or was sent through an upset mill intended for U.S. cent blanks. An undersized planchet wouldn’t betray any sign of having gone through an upset mill set up for a larger-diameter blank.

Since the weights are so similar, it’s reasonable to suppose that the unplated planchet belongs to the heavier population, but we can never be certain.

We still don’t know what countries the two types of copper-plated zinc planchets were originally intended for. Malaysia and Singapore have been suggested, but both guesses are untenable. A Malaysian 1 sen planchet is a poor candidate, as this coin is composed of copper-plated steel and sticks to a magnet. A Singapore cent planchet is also a non-starter as this copper-plated zinc coin is much smaller and lighter than either population, coming in at 1.24 grams. So if you see any U.S. cents encapsulated and labeled as having been struck on a Malaysian or Singapore planchet, ignore the attribution.

1998 Cent Struck on an Unplated Foreign Zinc Planchet

The 1998 cent in Figure 1 is not the only example of a coin struck on an unplated or incompletely plated foreign planchet. Figure 4 shows a 1992 British 10 pence struck on a steel planchet with a light and incomplete coating of copper on both faces. I don't know what country the planchet was originally intended for.

Figure 3. A 1996 cent struck on a copper-plated zinc blank that evidently was meant for a different country than the coin in Figure 2. It weighs 2.07 grams.

“In God We Trust” Amendment Passes

On June 28th, an amendment passed that may change the design of the new Presidential Dollar coins. The words “In God We Trust” may no longer appear on the edge of the coins.

Rep. Roger Wicker (R-Miss.) explained that the amendment will correct an unintentional error made by Congress. “At no point did anyone explain that [In God We Trust] would not be on the face of the coin,” Wicker stated. “The current coin has the words etched on the rim of the coin, obscuring them from view.”

1884 Carson City Morgan Dollar

Although there are a few double struck Morgan Dollars known to exist, they were slightly rotated between strikes.

This double struck Carson City Morgan Dollar is a significant rarity for several reasons. The fact that it is a major mint error struck by the Carson City Mint alone places it on the want lists of many serious collectors, whether their interests are Morgan Dollars, coins from Carson City or major mint errors.

In addition, it is rare as a mint error since the first strike was struck 25% off-center. It is exciting since it is still in the original GSA holder and has subsequently been certified by NGC as a MS 63 Proof-Like.

Mint Error News Price Guide

- Entire Price Guide Updated 07/01/07 -

This price guide is brought to you by Mint Error News. It has been compiled by many of the top major mint error dealers.

This price guide is a guide. Prices fluctuate due to the date, grade, eye appeal and how dramatic the striking error is. Rarity is also a factor. The price is sometimes based on the rarity and grade of the type of coin as well as how rare the error is. The price can also vary depending on whether two collectors are bidding for the same rare major mint error. When purchasing a mint error, it is important to use multiple resources to determine value, as there are many mint errors that do not fit into one category.

Proof Errors

Proof coins are struck by technicians who hand feed the blanks into special presses. They are produced, examined, and packaged using extreme quality control. It is very unusual to find major proof errors. A few broadstrikes, off-centers, double strikes in collars and off-metals have been known to be found in sealed proof sets. Proof errors are aggressively sought after by many error collectors.

A very small group of Proof errors recently came from a collection that was auctioned by the State of California. The U.S. Secret Service inspected and released this collection to the State of California determining that it was legal to own. The State of California then auctioned the collection and it has been dispersed since the sale.

Broadstrikes

A broadstruck error occurs when a coin is struck without the collar to form the rim and edge that is part of the shape of the coin. Coins can be broadstruck on either type one or type two planchets. When a coin is broadstruck the blank being fed into the collar will spread and distort outward as it is being struck because the collar isn't in the correct position to retain it.

Partial Collars

Partial collar strikes occur when there is a malfunction of the striking press. This causes the collar to be in an incorrect position. The lower die (usually the reverse die) is recessed in the collar. This allows the coin which is going to be struck to have a formed rim. After a coin is struck the lower die raises upwards, pushing the struck coin out of the collar and ejecting it. If a blank entering the collar is not properly seated, it will only have partial reeding as it is struck. The edge of this coin will have a partial reeding and a partial blank surface area. Recently, the Mint has installed new machinery where either die can be installed in either position.

Uniface Strikes

Uniface coins occur when there have been two blank planchets in the press at the same time. The other blank will obstruct the die on either the obverse or reverse side, which will prevent it from having that design on the coin. There are many different variations involving uniface errors. In addition to having a 100% blank obverse or reverse, a coin can be struck off-center, with a blank planchet in the collar which will obstruct one side of the off-center. There are also mated pairs which have a combination of multiple errors which can include a side which is uniface. Finally, there are uniface strikes due to a die cap which adhered to the die, forming itself in the shape of a die and striking blank planchets.

Bonded Coins

Bonded coins occur when the feeder system, which supplies blank planchets to the coin press, malfunctions and jams. When this occurs, a struck coin is not properly ejected and another planchet is fed into the collar and is struck. This struck coin will land on top of the previously unejected strike. These coins will then crush and bond together. This may occur many times as more coins bond.

Coins Struck on Feeder Finger Tips

After a recent tour of the U.S. Mint at Philadelphia, it was discovered that the minting process had changed to some degree. One of the changes was that “feeder fingers” were used during the striking of all denominations of U.S. coins. Prior to this tour, U.S. coins that were struck on feeder finger tips were authenticated and described as being struck on aluminum scrap. Coins from all modern denominations have been discovered that were struck on the tips of these feeder fingers.

Struck Fragments

The blanking press takes the coils of metal strips and punches blanks out of it, ejecting the webbing at the other end. The webbing is cut into small scrap pieces to be melted and recycled. Occasionally a scrap piece will be mixed with the blank planchets and struck by the dies. Struck fragments are rare in the larger denominations. These can be uniface or die struck both sides and are very rare on type coins.

Mated Pairs

Mated pairs involve two individual coins with different errors that were struck together at the same time. Mated pair error combinations can be found in most error types and come in many shapes and sizes. Mated pairs can be overlapped when one of the coins is struck off-center on top of another coin. Another type involves a brockage where a struck coin was perfectly centered on a blank and restruck. Some mated pairs involve a die cap where the cap and brockage coin are discovered together, but this is a scarce find.

The rarest mated pair type involves two die caps (obverse and reverse) where both dies were capped at the same time and both die caps are mated. This last type is extremely rare and there are only a few known examples of mated pairs involving an obverse die cap and reverse die cap. There are several of these mated pairs known on Kennedy Halves including two dated 1976, which is the Bicentennial year. One of the most spectacular mated pairs involve two Barber Dimes, an obverse die cap mated to a reverse die cap and are unique.

Mated pairs can also involve an off-metal where a smaller blank planchet or smaller struck coin was struck on top of a larger coin. This type is extremely rare. The most spectacular pair known is a double struck Franklin Half which was mated to a Lincoln Cent. The Lincoln Cent blank was on top of the obverse of the struck Franklin Half. This pair was then struck together. It is unique.

Transitional Errors

A transitional error occurs when a coin is struck on a planchet from a previous year with different metal composition. The most famous transitional is a 1943 copper cent struck on a 1942 copper blank. 1943 cents were struck in steel because of the copper shortage during World War II. Other famous transitionals include 1965 coinage struck in silver instead of clad.

There are also transitionals struck on blanks for the next year. An example is 1964 coinage in clad instead of silver. Most recently, transitionals were discovered involving the SBA and Sacagawea Dollars of 1999 and 2000. There are eight known 1999 SBA Dollars struck on the brass planchet for the 2000 Sacagawea Dollar, and four known 2000 Sacagawea Dollars struck on a clad planchet for the 1999 SBA Dollar.

U.S. Gold Errors

Major mint errors on U.S. Gold coins are the most prized category of all mint errors. Gold errors are very rare and a few have traded in the $75,000 to $100,000 range. Even a broadstruck U.S. Gold coin can easily sell for $15,000 to $30,000 compared to a broadstruck Cent, Nickel, Dime or Quarter which all sell for well under $10. Many serious collectors of Gold Errors have to wait patiently for months and sometimes even years to acquire that one special piece for their collection.

The prices listed here are for common dates in AU-Unc. Better dates and errors that are in gem condition are worth considerably more.

Indents

An indent error occurs when two blanks are fed inadvertently into the same collar, with one blank partly overlaying on top of the other. When the hammer die strikes this combination, the upper blank will be forced into the lower blank, creating a depression which is shaped similar to the upper blank. A scarce type of indent occurs when a blank intended for one denomination lands on top of a blank from a different denomination.

Die Caps

Die caps are caused when a struck coin sticks to the upper hammer die. Once the coin is struck to the die face, the reverse of the struck coin becomes the new die face. When the next blank is fed into the collar and the strike occurs, the reverse design of the adhered struck coin impresses itself into the new blank. This struck coin is a brockage strike. The coin that adhered to the upper die is known as a die cap. This process repeats itself as more coins are struck by the cap. The greater the number of strikes, the higher the cap metal will be pushed around the upper die shaft. Eventually, the cap brakes away from the die in the shape of a thimble.

Die Adjustment Strikes

Die adjustment strikes are also known as die trials. This error occurs when a coin is struck from the press with very little pressure. When the press is being set up and adjusted, extremely weak strikes occur as the strike pressure reaches its optimum level. These die trials are destroyed after being struck and are rarely found in circulation.

Double Denominations

One of the most expensive, popular, and desired types of errors are the double denominations. This error happens when a coin is struck on a previously struck coin of a smaller denomination. Examples are a cent on a struck dime, and a nickel on a struck cent. The most dramatic are those with considerable design visible from the original strike. There are a few known double denominations with different dates.

Brockages

A brockage error can only occur when there are two coins involved. One of the coins involved will always be a struck coin which has not ejected properly. That struck coin will find its way back between the dies and will be struck next to a blank planchet which was fed into the collar. The image of that first struck coin will be impressed into that side of the blank planchet. The result will be a second coin which has images of the first coin impressed into it. Those images will be pressed into the coin and the image will be in reverse. This incuse sunken image is known as a brockage.

Double & Multiple Strikes

When a blank planchet is struck by the dies, the normal procedure is for the feeders to eject the struck coin out of the collar and into a chute. If there is a malfunction and the struck coin isn't ejected, it may receive a second or third strike by the dies. A multiple struck coin can happen in many ways and have many combinations of errors.

Off-Center Strikes

Off-center coins are one of the most common and best known types of errors. This happens when a blank which is supposed to be fed into the press, lands in the collar improperly. When this occurs only part of the blank is between the upper and lower dies. When the dies strike the blank, only that part will be struck with a design.

Off-Metals

Off-metal and wrong planchet errors occur when a correctly made blank from one denomination is accidentally fed into a press for another denomination. Examples are a nickel struck on a cent planchet and a cent struck on a dime planchet. The coin struck on an incorrect blank will weigh exactly what the denomination of that blank would have been. An even more dramatic wrong planchet error is a coin struck on a previously struck coin of a different metal.

Frequently Asked Questions

What is Doubled Edge Lettering?

Doubled edge lettering errors occur when a coin passes through the edge lettering machine twice. There are two variations of this mint error.

One variation is doubled edge lettering with the second set of letters overlapping the first (in various degrees from close to far).

Another variation is doubled edge lettering with the second set of letters inverted over the first. On inverted examples, the two sets of edge lettering are in opposite orientation. One faces up when the obverse side is up, and the other is upside down.

When the coins are fed through the edge lettering machine, the edge lettering will appear randomly (as will the doubling) on the edge of the coins. This explains why some of the doubled edge lettering is overlapping and some inverted.
